An Important Conference.
An interesting and important conference took place at the McLure House last eveniag between a number of our leading citi 1908, (headed by the Mayor) and Mr. Grigge of the Wheeling & Lake Erie railgad company, who represents Commodore Garrison and other large New York capitalists, in regard to the bridging of the Ohio river at this point at an early day, possibly between this and the lat day

There is a law, passed in 1871, on our West bank of the Ohio river to Toledo, Ohio, to bridge the river at this point, city of Wheeling The Wheeling & Lake Erie road is now rapidly building a railroad between here and Toledo, and recent events have induced it to change its

York over the old Allentown route from Harrisburg. It is understood that this Estern syndicate, already controlling the Allentown route, intends to reach Wheeling at an early day, and go West o ther over the Tuscarawas route or that of that they prefer the latter and have virtually arranged for a connec tion with it. This is the reason why prompt steps are contemplated in regard

Mr. Griggs gave a very interesting and satisfactory account of the rapid progress making in the construction of the Wheeling & Lake Erie road. It is pushing on rapidly both to Toledo and Huron, its two points on Lake Erie. It goes into Toledo on very advantageous terms, and connects there with the Wabsah system. It will be perhaps the main line of the Wabash system to the East. It is well known that the project of getting a connection for the Wabsel to the East has been discussed for a long time in New York. The project seem to be taking shape rapidly in this

It is estimated that the bridge and approsches here will cost from $800,000 to $1,-000 000, yet it is believed that it can be constructed in six months. Mr. Griggs, who is a very intelligent gentleman, has ne doubt of it. He wanted to confer with the people of Wheeling in regard to it, and desired to ascertain whether they would be disposed to take stock in it. He felt certain that it would be a paying enter piss. It will be constructed across the upper point or bar of the Island, and reach this side just above Jonathan's ravine, and contemplates a wagon way and pamenger walk underneath its railros

The meeting listened with profound in ter set to the estatements of Mr. Griggs although those present were not able to amm e him that any considerable peountary identification with the project could be salisted here. It was understood that a rival interest to this project had been looking to bridging the river here, and the general supposition seemed to be that me interest or the other would finally bridge the river.

This admission induced the "half-breeds" to not only abuse the ex-loss, but to amend their first programme by attempting to replace Conking and Platt with two pronounced enemies of Stalwartism. It was this amendment that has exhibited their first mistake, and forced a balt which may inflict an irreparable injury. It is to get out of this unfortunate quandary that the secret meeting was held last night. One thing is certain, that if the determination to land the two "half breeds" a winner is the programme, it will prove futile, and for the reason: and for this reason:

CONKLING HAS THERTY-FIVE MEMBERS WIL

WILL CLING TO HIM UNTIL HE RETHRES FROM THE RACE, and after that to any two men who are in sympathy with him. Besides these there are thirteen members who are anxious to cast their ballots for Conkling, but dare not do so and accept the sentence of their not do so and acceptually and indignant constituencies. This then makes the total of 48 votes for the stalwarts, which is 22 more than is required for the dead-lock. Should Robertson and Wood in dead-lock. Should Robertson and Wood in the attempt to break that dead-lock, extend a line branch and accord two, or even one of the vacaccies to Conkling's friends, it would be regarded as a virtual backdown , which would tend to re build up the waning power of the opposi ling's Brother Sustains Sherman's Course - Text of the Letter. New York, June 2 .- At a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce, to-day, Mr

James M. Brown, banker, presiding, resolutions were adopted declaring that the system of examination for appoint ment to places in the Custom House which has ruled during the last few years, has been of substantial value to the mercantile community, and should be continued and extended. The committee, appointed to prepare a eply to Secretary Sherman's letter to the chamber, last February, in reference to the Chamber, last February, in reference to the collection of duties on sugar, presented their report. They declare the Secretary's letter, evasive, as no attempt was made in it to refute the facts set forth on behalf of importers.

Reterring to the trial of the test case of Welsh va. Merritt, at the last term of the United States Circuit Court, they say: "In the trial of the test case, the importers' offered no evidence whatever in rebut-

"In the trial of the test case, the importers' offered no evidence whatever in rebuttal of the testimony of the Treasury witnesses. They claim they were conducting their businesse with the law and were satisfied to rest their case goley on the law. The court sustained the importers and notwithstanding all the evidence introduced by the Treasury directed the jury to find a verdict for the plaintiffs, We make a point of the result of this trial because it is the direct refutation of the allegation set forth by Mr. Sherman in his letter and confirmation of the position taken by the chamber. It is conceded on all hands for the purpose of evading the duties. It is a fraud to color sugar after it becomes sugar. Scientific treasury agents told the secretary that sugar became sugar as soon as the crystals formed in the entire product from the cane, but of commerce and so far the court has sustained the position of the merchants upon which as a matter of law they rest their case, namely, that so long as the article in question is sugar of commerce its color by comparison with the duties of standard, is the sole test of the dutiable classification. In conclusion the Commissioner remarked that the Treasury Department cannot secure the kindly aid and good will of the merchants, for which Sherman expressed a desire, when the merchants are in a wholesale way c_arged with fraud, and without any evidence in support of the charge.

Col. Frederick A. Conkling, brother of ex-Senator Conkling, made a long speech, in which he upheld the course of Secretary Sherman in refusing to reacind his order of September 20, or refund the alleged excess duties on sugar, collected under its provisions. The committees report was then adopted, Colonel Conkling alone voting in the negative. The letter rest from larges.

alone voting in the negative. The letter read from James E. Ward & Co., endorsread from James E. Ward & Co., endorsing the copy of the letter sent by them to Secretary Windom, regarding the retusal of Collector Merritt to grant the clearance to their steamship, Newport, on the ground of smuggling by the members of of the crew. Ward & Company say, "We claim that the interpretation given to the United States laws by the officers administering the law division of the Custom House is, to say the least, an unfair one, as we cannot believe sion of the Custom House is, to say the least, an unfair one, as we cannot believe it was the intention of any government or legislature to make the innocent suffer for the guilty. Further than this these officers decline to prosecute the men caught in the act of smuggling, but claim the right to hold the ship and her master for the offense when the written report of the he offense when the written report of the officers making one seixure stated that segars were found on the person of some segars were found on the person of some of the crew, who were attempting to land them. Thus they desire to make our Captains and officers revenue officers without pay, and our ships bondsmen for them." The letter was referred and the Chamber adjourned until October.

CINCINIATI, O., June 2.—Bishop Elder The Attorney General to-day said to th correspondent of the Western Associated Press that there was no burry in bringing the matter before the Grand Jury of the District of Columbia, but that the fact that special counsel had been employed, did indicate that the Government was very nearly ready to commence the prosecutions. He thought, he said, and would certainly be pretty confident such was the case, that before any move was made, that the cases to be presented by the Government would be sustained before a jury of twelve men. There had been that there was no hurry in bringin for a jury of twelve men. There had been some difficulty, he said, in procuring testimony on certain essential points, but the investigation of Postmaster James was very rapidly supplying that deficiency.
